This slaughter of the Giants, coming as it did on top of what looked like an easy victory for New York, proved to be the worst trimming any ciub has given McGraw's team this season. Once those Cardinals got after Tesreau they could hit anything, and the arrival of Marquard and Perritt as a rescuing crew meant absolutely nothing. They swept the Rube out in just one-half of an inning, and treated Perritt, their former they will be able to trim him just as the Giants did the lamented "Bugs"

The midst of their one big rejoice of the year the St. Louis Cardinals to day are claiming to have found the vulnerable spot in Big Jeff Teareau's armor, and that hereafter they will be able to trim him just as the Giants did the lamented "Bugs" Raymond before he came to New York and was one of us.

For five innings the Ozark bear had held the Cardinals to a lone hit, and was so deadly effective with his spitter as to strike out six batters. Then he silowed Snyder to work him for a base on balls, and things began to happen.
